The decline from the final quotations of Friday was equal to 34 a 156 per cent. In the general list, but there was no excitement whatever and the decline was no greater than might be expected to occur at any time when there is a beliggerent bear party in the field. The fact that quotations in London held steady, despite the talk about foreign seeling, induced the built to give a certain degree of support to their specialties.

Heidelbach, loke the free & Co. have received $250,000 gold indirectly from spain.

The downward movement in stocks gained considerable momentum this afternoon. Exchange was stronger as a result of the passage of the Free-Sliver bill, and there was talk of heavy gold shipments to Europe by this week's steamships.

Boston continued to be a seller of its specialties. As a result of all this prices made a further decline. At the lowest figures that prevailed the losses from Friday's closing were 15 a 256 per cent. The dealings were much larger than of late, many important stop orders having been caught on the way down.

His Lordship Wouldn't Pay Fees. It is told on good authority of Lord Pal-merston that when he was made Knight o the Garter he strongly objected to what is termed the "garnish" (the official fee which are very beavy), says London Tid-Bits

'Is it absolutely necessary," he inquired little account, " to pay these tees?" " Really, my lord, I have never heard such an inquiry," was the dignined rejoinder. " Perhaps not, but I wish to know whether these charges can be enforced by the law."

" I believe not." "Very good. Then I shall not pay them."
"Then I, on my part, shall certainly decline to hoog your bordship's banner over your stall in St. George's Chapel." returned the "All right. As I never go to chapel at Windsor that will not matter to me in the least. I shall not pay those fees." And he never did.
